MATTERS REQUIRING STOCKHOLDER ACTION

PROPOSAL 1 — TO APPROVE AN AMENDMENT TO THE COMPANY’S CERTIFICATE OF INCORPORATION AUTHORIZING THE BOARD, WITHOUT FURTHER STOCKHOLDER APPROVAL, TO EFFECT A REVERSE STOCK SPLITS OF THE COMPANY’S COMMON STOCK, TO SET THE TIMING OF A STOCK SPLIT, OR TO REFRAIN FROM TAKING SUCH ACTION, AT A RATIO OF”), AT A RATIO BETWEEN THE RANGE OF ONE-FOR-TWO AND 1-FOR-20 (THE “REVERSE SPLIT”) TO MAINTAIN COMPLIANCE WITH NASDAQ LISTING RULE 5550(a)(2) (THE “SPLIT AUTHORIZATION”)

Overview

On October 24, 2025, the Board of Directors has approved, subject to stockholder approval, an amendment to the Company’s Certificate of Incorporation (the “Split Authorization Amendment”) authorizing the Board, in its discretion and without further stockholder approval, to effect a reverse of the Company’s common stock, par value $0.00001 per share (the “Common Stock”), at a ratio between the range of one-for-two (1:2) and one-for-twenty (1:20) (1-for-20), or to determine not to effect any split. The purpose of this proposal is to provide the Board with flexibility to take corporate actions necessary to maintain compliance with Nasdaq Listing Rule Nasdaq Listing Rule 5550(a)(2) (minimum bid-price requirement).

Rationale for the Proposal

The Board of Directors believes that a Reverse Split should, at least initially, and based upon reverse split of the issued and outstanding shares of Common Stock at an estimated ratio of one-for-twenty (1:20) (“Estimated Split Ratio”), and $0.7220 stock price as of October 24, 2025, increase the price of our shares of Common Stock to approximately $15.44 per share, in the event that our Board of Directors elected to implement the maximum reverse based on the Estimated Split Ratio, of which the final determination of the split ratio will be determined by the Board of Directors. Our stockholders should understand that as of the date of the Definitive Information Statement, our Board has not determined the exact ratio of the Reverse Split nor the date that the Reverse Split will be implemented.

While the Reverse Split will not increase the total market value of our Common Stock, the Board of Directors believes that the increase in the price of our shares of Common Stock, which increase may not necessarily be sustained, should make our shares of Common Stock more attractive to potential investors, encourage investor interest and trading in, and possibly the marketability of, our Common Stock, and allow us to maintain compliance with Nasdaq’s $1.00 minimum bid price requirement.

Our primary objective in effectuating the Reverse Split would be to attempt to raise the per-share trading price of our Common Stock to continue our listing on The Nasdaq Capital Market. To maintain listing, Nasdaq requires, among other things, that our Common Stock maintains a minimum closing bid price of $1.00 per share. On October 24, 2025, the closing price for our Common Stock on The Nasdaq Capital Market was $0.7220 per share.

We expect that the Reverse Split would increase the bid price per share of our Common Stock and reduce the risk of our stock trading below $1.00 in the future, thereby satisfying or maintaining this listing requirement. However, there can be no assurance that the Reverse Split would have that effect, initially or in the future, or that it would enable us to maintain the listing of our Common Stock on The Nasdaq Capital Market. We are not aware of any present efforts by anyone to accumulate our Common Stock, and the proposed Reverse Stock Split is not intended to be an anti-takeover device.

In addition, because brokers’ commissions on lower-priced stocks generally represent a higher percentage of the stock price than commissions on higher-priced stocks, the current per share price of our Common Stock can result in individual stockholders paying transaction costs (commissions, markups, or markdowns) that constitute a higher percentage of their total share value than would be the case if the share price of our Common Stock was higher. This difference in transaction costs may also limit the willingness of institutional investors to purchase shares of our Common Stock.

Trading in our shares of Common Stock also may be adversely affected by a variety of policies and practices of brokerage firms that discourage individual brokers within those firms from dealing in low-priced stocks. These policies and practices pertain to the payment of brokers’ commissions and to time-consuming procedures that make the handling of low-priced stocks unattractive to brokers from an economic standpoint. Similarly, many brokerage firms are reluctant to recommend low-priced stocks to their customers and the analysts at many brokerage firms do not provide coverage for such stocks. The Board also believes that the decrease in the number of shares of Common Stock outstanding as a consequence of the Reverse Split, and the anticipated increase in the price of the Common Stock, could generate interest in the Common Stock and possibly promote greater liquidity for the Company's stockholders. However, the Company's aggregate market capitalization could be reduced to the extent that any increase in the market price of the Common Stock resulting from the Reverse Split is proportionately less than the decrease in the number of shares of Common Stock outstanding.

The Board further believes that the total number of shares of our Common Stock currently outstanding is disproportionately large relative to our present market capitalization and that the Reverse Split would bring the number of outstanding shares to a level more in line with other companies with comparable market capitalizations. Moreover, the Board considered that the number of outstanding shares of Common Stock is unreasonably large in relation to the Company's operations. Upon implementation of the Reverse Split and decrease of the number of shares of Common Stock that are issued and outstanding, our investors may more easily understand the impact on earnings or loss per share attributable to future developments in our business.

We ultimately cannot predict whether, and to what extent, the Reverse Split would achieve the desired results. The price per share of our Common Stock is a function of various factors, including the profitability of our business operations.

Accordingly, there can be no assurance that the market price of our Common Stock after the Reverse Split would increase in an amount proportionate to the decrease in the number of issued and outstanding shares, or would increase at all, that any increase can be sustained for a prolonged period of time or that the Reverse Split would enhance the liquidity of, or investor interest in, our Common Stock.

Principal Effects of the Reverse Split

After the filing of the Definitive Information Statement on Schedule 14C and the final determination by the Board of Directors of the ratio of the Reverse Split, which is expected to be one-for-twenty (1:20), the Company will file a Certificate of Amendment to our Certificate of Incorporation with the State of Delaware substantially in the form of Exhibit A and submit a Corporate Event Notification Form to Nasdaq and take the appropriate actions in order to comply with Nasdaq Rule 5250(e)(7).

Except for the number of shares of Common Stock issued and outstanding, the rights and preferences of shares of our Common Stock prior and subsequent to the Reverse Split would remain the same. We do not anticipate that our financial condition, the percentage of our stock owned by management, the number of our stockholders, or any aspect of our current business would materially change as a result of the Reverse Split.

Our Common Stock is currently registered under Section 12(b) of the Exchange Act and, as a result, we are subject to periodic reporting and other requirements. The proposed Reverse Split would not affect the registration of our Common Stock under the Exchange Act.

After the Effective Date of the Reverse Split, each stockholder would own a reduced number of shares of our Common Stock, based upon the ratio of the reverse, which will be subject to the determination of our Board of Directors. However, a Reverse Split would affect all stockholders equally and will not affect any stockholder's percentage ownership of the Company, except for the immaterial result that the Reverse Split shall involve in the rounding up of any fractional shares up to the next whole in such a manner that every stockholder shall own at least one (1) share subsequent to the Reverse Split, as described herein. Proportionate voting rights and other rights and preferences of the holders of our Common Stock would not be affected by the Reverse Split. There will be no payment of cash in lieu of any fractional shares. Furthermore, the number of stockholders of record would not be affected by the Reverse Split.

Authorized but Unissued Shares; Potential Dilution and Anti-Takeover Effects.

Upon the Effective Date of the Reverse Split, the Company is expected to have approximately 12,649,982 shares issued and outstanding, assuming a one-for-twenty (1:20) Reverse Split and will continue to have 600,000,000 shares of Common Stock authorized. The ultimate determination of the Board of Directors on the ratio of the Reverse Split shall be based upon, among other factors, the prevailing market price of the Company's shares of Common Stock during the period prior to the Reverse Split determination. After the Reverse Split is implemented, there will be available, in any event, a significant number of authorized but unissued shares of Common Stock available for issuance from time to time for business purposes as reasonably determined by the Board of Directors, including for use in capital-raising transactions and acquisitions, among other purposes, consistent with our business objectives.

The significant increase in the proportion of unissued authorized shares to issued shares after the Reverse Split could, under certain circumstances, have an anti-takeover effect (for example, by permitting issuances that would dilute the stock ownership of a person seeking to effect a change in the composition of our Board of Directors or contemplating a tender offer or other transaction for the combination of our Company with another company), we are not proposing the Reverse Split in response to any effort of which we are aware to accumulate any of our shares of our Common Stock or to otherwise seek to obtain control of the Company. Our Board of Directors does not currently contemplate recommending the adoption of any other proposals that could be construed to affect the ability of anyone to take over or change the control of the Company.

We believe that the availability of the additional shares will provide us with the flexibility to pursue potential transactions as they arise, to take advantage of desirable business opportunities and to respond effectively in a changing corporate environment. For example, we may elect to issue shares of Common Stock to raise equity capital, to make acquisitions using shares of Common Stock, to establish strategic relationships with other companies, to adopt additional employee benefit plans or reserve additional shares for issuance under such plans, where the Board determines it advisable to do so, without the necessity of soliciting further stockholder approval, subject to applicable stockholder vote requirements.

If we issue additional shares for any of the above purposes, the aggregate ownership interest of our current stockholders, and the interest of each such existing stockholder, would be diluted, possibly substantially. Furthermore, the additional shares of Common Stock that would become available for issuance upon the Effective Date of the Reverse Split could also be used by the Company's management to oppose any potential hostile takeover attempt or delay or prevent changes in control or changes in or removal of the Company.

For example, without further stockholder approval, our Board of Directors could authorize the issuance and sale of shares of Common Stock in one or more private transactions to purchasers who would oppose a takeover or favor the current Board. Although the Reverse Split was based upon business and financial considerations that we consider reasonable and necessary as of the Record Date, as discussed above, stockholders nevertheless should be aware that approval of one or more of the proposals could facilitate future efforts by management to deter or prevent a change in control of the Corporation.

Fairness of the Process

The Board of Directors did not obtain a report, opinion or appraisal from an appraiser or financial advisor with respect to the Reverse Split and no representative or advisor was retained on behalf of the unaffiliated stockholders to review or negotiate the transaction. The Board of Directors concluded that the additional expense of these independent appraisal procedures was unreasonable in relation to the Company's available cash resources and concluded that the Board of Directors could adequately establish the fairness of the Reverse Split without the engagement of third parties.

Outstanding Shares

Status	Number of Shares of Common Stock Authorized	Number of Shares of Common Stock Issued and Outstanding	Number of Shares of Common Stock Reserved for Future Issuance	Number of Shares of Common Stock Authorized but Unissued and Unreserved	Hypothetical Initial Market Value of Shares of Common Stock Authorized but Unissued and Unreserved*
Pre-Reverse Stock Split	600,000,000	12,649,982	[•]	[•]	$ [•]
Post-Reverse Stock Split (assuming a split ratio of 1:20).	600,000,000	632,500*	[•]	[•]	$ [•]

* Based on a hypothetical post-split stock price calculated by multiplying the closing stock price on [•], 2025 of $[•] by [•] (the number of shares outstanding on the effective date of the Reverse Stock Split) and dividing that product by the Estimated Split Ratio of one-for-twenty (1:20).

Accounting Consequences

The par value per share of our common stock will remain unchanged at $0.00001 per share following a Reverse Stock Split. As a result, as of the Effective Date, the stated capital on the Company's balance sheets attributable to common stock will be reduced proportionally based on the Reverse Stock Split ratio, and the additional paid-in capital will be credited with the amount by which the capital is reduced. The net income or loss per share of common stock will be increased as a result of the fewer shares of common stock outstanding. The Reverse Stock Split will be reflected retroactively in our consolidated financial statements.

We present earnings per share ("EPS") in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards ("SFAS") No. 128, "Earnings per Share," and we will comply with the requirements of SFAS No. 128 with respect to reverse stock splits. In pertinent part, SFAS No. 128 says as follows: "If the number of common shares outstanding decreases as a result of a the Reverse Split, the computations of basic and diluted EPS shall be adjusted retroactively for all periods presented to reflect that change in capital structure. If changes in Common Stock resulting from reverse stock splits occur after the close of the period but before issuance of the financial statements, the per-share computations for those and any prior period financial statements presented shall be based on the new number of shares. If any per-share computations reflect such changes in the number of shares, that fact shall be disclosed.

Potential Risks of the Proposal

Implementation of the Split Authorization may not achieve the intended objectives. Among other risks:

- There can be no assurance that a reverse split will permanently increase the market price of the Common Stock or maintain Nasdaq compliance.
- Reduced float may impair liquidity and increase volatility.
- The increase in authorized but unissued shares (if not proportionally reduced) could permit future issuances that may dilute existing stockholders.
- Market participants may perceive a reverse split as a signal of weakness, potentially creating downward pressure on the stock price.

Additional risks are discussed in the section titled "Risk Factors" beginning on page 16 of this proxy statement and in the Company's periodic SEC filings.

Implementation and Timing

If approved by stockholders, the Board may file the Certificate of Amendment with the Delaware Secretary of State at any time. The Board may elect to implement one or more splits within the approved range or to take no action. The Board will consider the Company's compliance status, market conditions, and strategic factors before proceeding.

Procedure for Implementing the Amendment

The amendment will become effective upon the filing of the Certificate of Amendment or such later time as specified in the filing with the Secretary of State of the State of Delaware. The form of the Certificate of Amendment is attached hereto as Exhibit A. The exact timing of the filing of the Certificate of Amendment will be determined by the Board based on its evaluation as to when such action will be the most advantageous to the Company and its stockholders.

Federal Income Tax Consequences

The following is a summary of material U.S. federal income tax consequences of a Reverse Stock Split to stockholders. This summary is based on the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the "Code"), U.S. Treasury regulations, administrative rulings and judicial decisions, all as in effect on the date of this filing, and all of which are subject to change or differing interpretations, possibly with retroactive effect. Any such change or differing interpretation could affect the tax consequences described below.

We have not sought and will not seek an opinion of counsel or ruling from the Internal Revenue Service (the “IRS”) with respect to the statements made and the conclusions reached in the following summary, and there can be no assurance that the IRS or a court will agree with such statements and conclusions.

This summary is limited to stockholders that are U.S. holders, as defined below, and that hold our common stock as a capital asset (generally, property held for investment).

This summary is for general information only and does not address all U.S. federal income tax considerations that may be applicable to a holder’s particular circumstances or to holders that may be subject to special tax rules, such as, for example, brokers and dealers in securities, currencies or commodities, banks and financial institutions, regulated investment companies, real estate investment trusts, expatriates, tax-exempt entities, governmental organizations, traders in securities that elect to use a mark-to-market method of accounting for their securities, certain former citizens or long-term residents of the U.S., insurance companies, persons holding shares of our common stock as part of a hedging, integrated or conversion transaction or a straddle or persons deemed to sell shares of our common stock under the constructive sale provisions of the Code, persons that hold more than 5% of our common stock, persons that hold our common stock in an individual retirement account, 401(k) plan or similar tax-favored account or partnerships or other pass-through entities for U.S. federal income tax purposes and investors in such entities.

This summary does not address any U.S. federal tax consequences other than U.S. federal income tax consequences (such as estate or gift tax consequences), the Medicare tax on net investment income, the alternative minimum tax or any U.S. state, local or foreign tax consequences. This summary also does not address any U.S. federal income tax considerations relating to any other transaction other than the Reverse Stock Split.

For purposes of this summary, a “U.S. holder” means a beneficial owner of our common stock that is, for U.S. federal income tax purposes:

- an individual who is a citizen or resident of the U.S.;
- a corporation created or organized in or under the laws of the U.S., any state thereof or the District of Columbia;
- an estate the income of which is subject to U.S. federal income taxation regardless of its source; or
- a trust if (1) it is subject to the primary supervision of a court within the U.S. and one or more U.S. persons have the authority to control all substantial decisions of the trust or (2) it has a valid election in effect under applicable U.S. Treasury regulations to be treated as a U.S. person.

If an entity (or arrangement) classified as a partnership for U.S. federal income tax purposes holds shares of our common stock, the tax treatment of a partner in the partnership will generally depend upon the status of the partner and the activities of the partnership. If a holder of our common stock is a partner of a partnership holding shares of our common stock, such holder should consult his or her own tax advisor.

This summary of certain U.S. federal income tax consequences is for general information only and is not tax advice. Stockholders are urged to consult their own tax advisor with respect to the application of U.S. federal income tax laws to their particular situation as well as any tax considerations arising under other U.S. federal tax laws (such as the estate or gift tax laws) or under the laws of any state, local, foreign or other taxing jurisdiction or under any applicable tax treaty.

The Reverse Stock Split is intended to be treated as a recapitalization for U.S. federal income tax purposes. Assuming the Reverse Stock Split qualifies as a recapitalization, except as described below with respect to cash received in lieu of a fractional share, a U.S. holder will not recognize any gain or loss for U.S. federal income tax purposes upon the Reverse Stock Split. In the aggregate, a U.S. holder’s tax basis in the common stock received pursuant to the Reverse Stock Split (excluding the portion of the tax basis that is allocable to any fractional share) will equal the U.S. holder’s tax basis in its common stock surrendered in the Reverse Stock Split in exchange therefor, and the holding period of the U.S. holder’s common stock received pursuant to the Reverse Stock Split will include the holding period of the common stock surrendered in the Reverse Stock Split in exchange therefor.

In general, a U.S. holder who receives a cash payment in lieu of a fractional share will recognize capital gain or loss equal to the difference between the amount of cash received in lieu of the fractional share and the portion of the U.S. holder’s tax basis of the common stock surrendered in the Reverse Stock Split that is allocable to the fractional share. Such gain or loss generally will be long-term capital gain or loss if the U.S. holder's holding period in its common stock surrendered in the Reverse Stock Split is more than one year as of the date of the Reverse Stock Split. The deductibility of net capital losses by individuals and corporations is subject to limitations. Depending on a stockholder's individual facts and circumstances, it is possible that cash received in lieu of a fractional share could be treated as a distribution under Section 301 of the Code, so stockholders should consult their own tax advisors as to that possibility and the resulting tax consequences to them in that event.

U.S. holders that have acquired different blocks of our common stock at different times or at different prices are urged to consult their own tax advisors regarding the allocation of their aggregated adjusted basis among, and the holding period of, our common stock.

Information returns generally will be required to be filed with the IRS with respect to the payment of cash in lieu of a fractional share made pursuant to the Reverse Stock Split unless such U.S. holder is an exempt recipient and timely and properly establishes with the applicable withholding agent the exemption. In addition, payments of cash in lieu of a fractional share made pursuant to the Reverse Stock Split may, under certain circumstances, be subject to backup withholding, unless a U.S. holder timely provides to the applicable withholding agent proof of an applicable exemption or a correct taxpayer identification number, and otherwise complies with the applicable requirements of the backup withholding rules. Any amounts withheld under the backup withholding rules are not additional tax and may be refunded or credited against the U.S. holder's U.S. federal income tax liability, provided that the U.S. holder timely furnishes the required information to the IRS. U.S. holders should consult their tax advisors regarding their qualification for an exemption from backup withholding and the procedures for obtaining such an exemption.

Vote Required

Approval of this proposal requires the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the Company's outstanding shares entitled to vote. Abstentions and broker non-votes will have the same effect as votes against this proposal.

Board Recommendation

THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS UNANIMOUSLY RECOMMENDS THAT STOCKHOLDERS VOTE "FOR" PROPOSAL 1.

PROPOSAL 2 — APPROVAL OF ADJOURNMENT OF THE SPECIAL MEETING TO SOLICIT ADDITIONAL PROXIES

To approve the adjournment of the special meeting, if necessary or appropriate, to solicit additional proxies (the “Adjournment Proposal”) (Proposal 2).

Background and Rationale

The Board of Directors has determined that it is in the best interests of the Company and its stockholders to obtain approval to adjourn the Special Meeting in the event that the votes received at the Special Meeting are insufficient to approve Proposal 1. If at the Special Meeting the number of shares of common stock present or represented and voting in favor of Proposal 1 (the “Split Authorization Proposal”) or any other proposal is insufficient to approve such proposal, our management intends to move to adjourn the Special Meeting to solicit additional proxies. If the Adjournment Proposal is approved, the meeting may be adjourned to another time or place, if necessary, to solicit additional proxies.

If the Special Meeting is adjourned for any reason, at any subsequent reconvened meeting the Company may submit the same proposals for stockholder approval that were set forth in the original notice of the Special Meeting. No other business may be transacted at the reconvened meeting. The Board may determine not to adjourn the meeting even if the Adjournment Proposal is approved, if it concludes that additional solicitation is unlikely to change the outcome of the vote.

Although the Adjournment Proposal relates specifically to the potential adjournment of the Special Meeting if there are insufficient votes to approve Proposal 1 (the “Split Authorization Proposal”), the authority to adjourn, if approved, could also be used in connection with any other proposal where additional solicitation of proxies may be appropriate.

If the Special Meeting is adjourned and reconvened within 30 days of the original date, no additional notice of the reconvened meeting will be required other than an announcement at the meeting. Because this is considered a routine matter under applicable Nasdaq rules, brokers may exercise discretion to vote uninstructed shares on the Adjournment Proposal. Unless you instruct otherwise, the persons named as proxies will vote in their discretion on any motion to adjourn the meeting.

Risk Factors

Additional risks are discussed in the section titled “Risk Factors” of this proxy statement and in the Company’s periodic SEC filings.

Interests of Officers and Directors in this Proposal

The officers and directors of the Company do not have any substantial interest, direct or indirect, in this proposal.

Vote Required

The vote required is the majority of the shares present in person or by proxy. This is a routine matter. Brokers may vote in their discretion. Broker non-voted shares are not expected to affect the outcome of the vote.

Board Recommendation

THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE COMPANY RECOMMENDS THAT STOCKHOLDERS VOTE FOR APPROVAL OF ADJOURNMENT OF THE SPECIAL MEETING TO SOLICIT ADDITIONAL PROXIES.

CAUTIONARY NOTE REGARDING FORWARD-LOOKING STATEMENTS

This proxy statement contains statements that constitute “forward-looking statements” within the meaning of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, including, but not limited to, for all statements about future plans. Forward-looking statements include, among others, statements concerning: the Company’s expectations regarding the proposed reverse stock split and its potential effect on compliance with Nasdaq listing requirements; the anticipated impact of the proposed amendment to the Certificate of Incorporation authorizing digital-asset and blockchain-based treasury activities; the potential benefits of the amended equity incentive plan; the Company’s strategic objectives, financial condition, liquidity, and capital-markets access; and any other statements of plans, beliefs, or future events that are not historical facts. Words such as “believe,” “expect,” “anticipate,” “intend,” “plan,” “estimate,” “may,” “will,” “would,” “could,” and similar expressions are intended to identify such forward-looking statements.

These statements are based on management’s current expectations, estimates, assumptions, and projections about the Company’s business, the industries in which it operates, and general economic conditions. Forward-looking statements are not guarantees of future performance and are subject to risks, uncertainties, and factors, many of which are beyond the Company’s control, that could cause actual results or outcomes to differ materially from those expressed or implied. Important factors that may cause such differences include, among others: the Company’s ability to successfully implement the reverse stock split and maintain compliance with Nasdaq listing standards; market reaction to the reverse split; the Company’s access to capital markets under the Form S-3 “baby shelf” limitation; dilution from outstanding convertible or warrant securities; and the other risks described in the section titled “Risk Factors” in this proxy statement and in the Company’s annual reports filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Readers are cautioned not to place undue reliance on forward-looking statements, which speak only as of the date of this proxy statement. The Company undertakes no obligation to publicly update or revise any forward-looking statements, whether as a result of new information, future events, or otherwise, except as required by applicable law.

SECURITY OWNERSHIP OF CERTAIN BENEFICIAL OWNERS AND MANAGEMENT AND RELATED STOCKHOLDER MATTERS

The following table sets forth certain information, as of the Record Date, that are beneficially owned by (i) each person or entity known to our Company to be the beneficial owner of more than 5% of the outstanding Common Stock; (ii) each officer and director of our Company; and (iii) all officers and directors as a group. Information relating to beneficial ownership of Common Stock by our principal stockholders is based upon information furnished by each person using “beneficial ownership” concepts under the rules of the SEC. Under these rules, a person is deemed to be a beneficial owner of a security if that person has or shares voting power, which includes the power to vote or direct the voting of the security, or investment power, which includes the power to vote or direct the voting of the security. The person is also deemed to be a beneficial owner of any security of which that person has a right to acquire beneficial ownership within sixty (60) days. Under the rules of the SEC, more than one person may be deemed to be a beneficial owner of the same securities, and a person may be deemed to be a beneficial owner of securities as to which he/she may not have any pecuniary beneficial interest. Except as noted below, each person has sole voting and investment power. Beneficial ownership is determined in accordance with the rules of the SEC and includes voting or investment power with respect to the shares. Except as otherwise indicated, and subject to applicable community property laws, the persons named in the table have sole voting and investment power with respect to all shares of our common stock held by them.

RISK FACTORS

An investment in our common stock involves significant risks. Stockholders and potential investors should carefully review the risks described in this proxy statement under the section titled “Risk Factors,” together with the risk factors and other information contained in our Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended June 30, 2025, as amended, our subsequently filed Quarterly Reports on Form 10-Q, and any other documents that we have filed or may in the future file with the Securities and Exchange Commission, each of which is incorporated by reference into this proxy statement. Additional risks and uncertainties not presently known to us or that we currently deem immaterial may also impair our business operations. If any of the risks described occur, our business, financial condition, results of operations, or cash flows could be materially and adversely affected, and the trading price of our common stock could decline, causing you to lose all or part of the value of your investment.

Potential Decline in Market Price After Reverse Split

The market price of the Company’s Common Stock may not increase in proportion to the Reverse Stock Split ratio, and the market price could decline following the Reverse Stock Split. There can be no assurance that the market price of the Common Stock after the Reverse Stock Split will equal or exceed the pre-split price multiplied by the applicable ratio. The market price may decline because the aggregate value of the Company has not changed, and lower liquidity could negatively affect trading.

Reduced Liquidity of Common Stock

As a result of the Reverse Stock Split, the number of shares available for trading will decrease proportionally. Fewer shares could make it more difficult for investors to buy or sell significant numbers of shares without materially affecting the market price. Lower trading volume may limit investors’ ability to buy or sell our shares quickly or without materially affecting the market price. Reduced liquidity may increase volatility, widen bid-ask spreads, and impair our stock’s attractiveness to institutional investors or analysts that rely on active trading markets. These factors could adversely affect the market value of our common stock.

Creation of Odd-Lot Holdings

The reverse stock split may result in some stockholders owning odd-lot shares that may be more difficult to sell. Broker-dealers often charge higher transaction fees for odd-lot sales, which could discourage sales and adversely affect liquidity.

Continued Nasdaq Compliance Risk

There can be no assurance that the Company will maintain compliance with Nasdaq’s minimum bid-price requirement following the Reverse Stock Split. While the reverse split is intended to raise the price per share above one dollar, market forces could reduce the price again. If the bid price falls below the required threshold for a sustained period, the Company could again be subject to delisting proceedings. Although a reverse stock split would be intended to help the Company regain compliance with Nasdaq’s $1.00 minimum bid-price requirement, there can be no assurance that the post-split trading price will satisfy Nasdaq’s continued listing standards over the long term. Market conditions, investor sentiment, or Company-specific developments could cause the price to fall below the minimum threshold again, triggering renewed non-compliance and potential delisting proceedings. In addition, the Company must continue to satisfy other quantitative and qualitative Nasdaq standards, including minimum market value of publicly held shares, stockholders’ equity, and corporate governance requirements.

No Change to Business Fundamentals

The Reverse Stock Split will not affect the Company’s underlying business fundamentals. The Reverse Stock Split not change total stockholders’ equity or the Company’s operations, assets, liabilities, or prospects.

Increase in Authorized but Unissued Shares

The Reverse Stock Split could result in the Company having a significantly increased number of authorized but unissued shares if the total authorized shares are not reduced proportionally. This could result in substantial potential dilution if the Company issues additional shares in the future for capital raising, acquisitions, or compensation purposes.

Negative Investor Perception

There is a risk that some investors may perceive the Reverse Stock Split as a negative signal, viewing it as an indication of financial distress. This perception could result in downward pressure on the stock price and reduced investor interest.

Accounting Adjustments and Comparability

The Reverse Stock Split could have unintended accounting consequences. Adjustments to per-share data such as earnings per share, book value per share, and other metrics could alter comparability across reporting periods.

Administrative and Technical Implementation Risks

The Company's transfer agent, brokerage firms, and clearing systems will need to coordinate implementation of the Reverse Stock Split. Errors or delays in these processes could result in trading disruptions, inaccurate account balances, or delays in settlement.

Broad Board Discretion

The Company's Board of Directors has broad discretion in implementing the Reverse Stock Split. The Board may choose the timing of the Reverse Stock Split or may abandon the split entirely.

Potential for Dilution from Unreduced Authorized Shares

If the Board elects not to proportionally reduce the number of authorized shares, management will have greater flexibility to issue additional shares without further stockholder approval. While this flexibility could benefit the Company, it also increases the potential for dilution of existing stockholders.

Fractional Share Treatment and Tax Consequences

Fractional shares created by the Reverse Stock Split will be rounded up to the nearest whole share or paid out in cash, depending on the Board's decision. Stockholders receiving cash for fractional shares could be subject to tax consequences.

Uncertain Effect on Capital-Raising Ability

The Reverse Stock Split could affect the Company's ability to raise additional capital. A higher per-share price may improve perceptions among institutional investors, but reduced float may limit investor participation.

Potential Anti-Dilution Adjustments

The Reverse Stock Split may trigger certain anti-dilution adjustments or contractual provisions in existing financing instruments, which could change conversion ratios, warrant coverage, or exercise prices.

Market and Volatility Effects

The Reverse Stock Split could alter trading dynamics, including bid-ask spreads, daily volume, and volatility. Market makers may adjust their participation levels or quoting behavior.

Tax Considerations for Stockholders

The Reverse Stock Split may have tax implications. Generally, the transaction should be tax-neutral under U.S. federal income tax laws, but holders of fractional shares receiving cash may recognize gain or loss.

Potential Impairment of Institutional Investment Interest

If the Company's Common Stock is perceived as highly volatile following the Reverse Stock Split, institutional investors may be less likely to invest, reducing market visibility.

Uncertain Nasdaq Listing Continuity

Stockholder approval of these proposals does not guarantee continued listing on Nasdaq. Other quantitative listing standards could still pose compliance risks.

Absence of Appraisal Rights

Stockholders will not have appraisal rights under Delaware law in connection with the Reverse Stock Split and related charter amendment.

Operational Coordination Risks

The Reverse Stock Split requires coordination with multiple entities, including Nasdaq, the SEC, FINRA, DTC, and the transfer agent. Any delay could cause trading issues.

Reputational and Market Perception Risk

The Company cannot predict how the Reverse Stock Split will be viewed by current or prospective investors, securities analysts, or the financial media.

Costs of Implementation

Implementation of the Reverse Stock Split will incur legal, accounting, transfer agent, and mailing costs that may not be offset by resulting benefits.

Failure to Achieve Intended Market Effects

The Reverse Stock Split may not improve investor perception if the Company's financial performance does not improve.

Uncertainty of Stockholder Approval

If the proposals do not receive sufficient support, the Company could remain out of compliance with Nasdaq requirements and risk delisting.

Failure to Regain or Maintain Nasdaq Minimum Bid-Price Compliance if the Reverse Stock Split Is Not Approved or Implemented

If stockholders do not approve the Reverse Stock Split or if the Company elects not to implement it, we may be unable to regain or maintain compliance with Nasdaq Listing Rule 5550(a)(2), which requires our common stock to maintain a minimum closing bid price of $1.00 per share. Nasdaq has provided the Company with notice of non-compliance, and our continued listing is dependent on demonstrating sustained compliance within the applicable cure period. Without approval of the Reverse Stock Split, the Company has no practical means of increasing the per-share market price of its Common Stock to meet the $1.00 threshold. Failure to regain compliance could result in the initiation of delisting proceedings by Nasdaq. Delisting from the Nasdaq Capital Market would likely have a material adverse effect on the liquidity, trading volume, and market price of our Common Stock. It could also impair our ability to raise capital through public or private offerings, as many institutional investors and funds are restricted from investing in securities that are not listed on a national securities exchange. In addition, delisting could reduce the possibility of obtaining analyst coverage, diminish investor confidence, and make it more difficult to attract and retain key employees who receive equity compensation. Even if the Reverse Stock Split is approved and implemented, there can be no assurance that our Common Stock will continue to trade above the $1.00 minimum bid price. Market conditions, investor sentiment, or operational developments outside of our control could cause our stock price to decline again, placing our listing in jeopardy despite the Reverse Stock Split.
